

This project involves predicting sales for Walmart using historical data from 45 stores. We analyse factors such as weekly sales, holidays, temperature, fuel prices, CPI, and unemployment rates. The aim is to build a reliable model that forecasts demand accurately, considering special events and economic conditions. This will help Walmart manage inventory better and improve overall sales strategies.